DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings were received on July 2, 2004. These drawings are accepted.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 1-18, 20-26, and 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.
4. Claim 1 recites the limitation "successive transitions between on and off states of the first switching signal or of the second switching signal that occur in different periods are separated in time by a minimum time period". The specification does not recite or disclose a minimum time period between successive transitions of the switching signals. This constitutes new matter. Claims 2-18, 20-26, and 32 inherit this deficiency.

In addition, it is not clear exactly what is being claimed. Claim 1 originally recited a rule that the pulse width of the output voltage must not fall below a minimum; claim 1 as amended appears to recite a rule that the pulse width of one of the switching signal voltages does not fall below a minimum. This renders the Applicant's invention unclear.

5. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

Art Unit: 2836

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

6. Claims 20 and 23-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

7. Regarding claims 20, 23, and 24, the phrase "processing means" renders the claim(s) indefinite because the claim(s) include(s) elements not actually disclosed (those encompassed by "processing means"), thereby rendering the scope of the claim(s) unascertainable. See MPEP § 2173.05(d).

35 U.S.C. 112, sixth paragraph, and 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) require that means-plus-function claims be supported by sufficient structure in the specification so that the scope of the claims is ascertainable.

The specification does not identify or describe the structure corresponding to the claimed "processing means". It is not clear how processors, microprocessors, chips, etc. can function absent a computer, and neither processors, microprocessors, nor chips are recited or disclosed in the specification. The specification must be amended to state what structure or apparatus, other than a computer, would function as processing means, or the claims must be cancelled. This would not constitute new matter because the claims recite "processing means", as set forth above. Even if the disclosure implicitly sets forth the structure, materials, or acts corresponding to a means- (or step-) plus-function claim element in compliance with 35 U.S.C. 112, first and second paragraphs, the applicant must still explicitly state, with reference to the terms and phrases of the claim element, what structure, materials, or acts perform the function recited in the claim element. See 35 U.S.C. 112, sixth paragraph ("An element in a claim for a combination may be expressed as a means or step for performing a specified function without the recital of structure, material, or acts in support thereof, and such claim shall be construed to cover the corresponding structure, material, or acts described in the specification and equivalents thereof." (emphasis added)); see also B. Braun Medical, 124 F.3d at 1424, 43 USPQ2d at 1900 (holding that "pursuant to this provision [35 U.S.C. 112, sixth paragraph], structure disclosed in the specification is 'corresponding' structure only if the specification or prosecution history clearly links or associates that structure to the function recited in the claim. This duty to link or associate structure to function is the quid pro quo for the convenience of employing 112, paragraph 6.") See MPEP §2181(IV). Claims 25 and 26 inherit this deficiency.
